Change Healthcare closes $9M series C round

Major insurer leads funding for health care cost transparency play

Published January 16, 2012 by Walker Duncan

Change Healthcare, which has continued to raise significant money to cement its place in the health care cost transparency sector, will officially announce Tuesday that it has closed a $9.3 million series C funding round backed by an insurance heavyweight and a handful of other investors.

Late last Friday, the company filed a form D with the Securities and Exchange Commission outlining the funding. Among the investors are insurance giant BlueCross BlueShield Venture Partners along with Sandbox Industries, Mitsui & Co. Global Investment, the West Health Investment Fund and existing investor Solidus Co.

Full disclosure: Solidus LLC, which participated in the funding round, is also an investor in NashvillePost.com parent company SouthComm.
